

NOZB9R Reversed?

The Neo-Marxism of the Frankfurt School and the Dialectic of Enlightenment

Jacob Klapwijk

© Dr. Jacob Klapwijk 1976, 2009

Originally published as Dialektiek der Verlichting: Een Verkenning in het Neomarxisme van de Frankfurter Schule, Van Gorcum, Assen/Amsterdam, 1976 and 1977.

Translated from the Dutch by C.L. Yallop and P.M. Yallop

Contents

1. What is the 'Dialectic of Enlightenment'?
  - 1.1 The Enchanted World
  - 1.2 Dialectics
  - 1.3 The Aufklärung and Hegel and Marx
  - 1.4 Neo-Marxism in Distress

2. The 'Critical Theory' of Horkheimer and Adorno
  - 2.1 The Language of Suffering
  - 2.2 Criticism and Reconciliation
  - 2.3 Theory and Practice
  - 2.4 Is Reason Reliable?

3. Marcus and the 'Eroticisation' of Culture
  - 3.1 Freud and Fromm
  - 3.2 Reality, Reason and Repression: The Primal Horde
  - 3.3 Life-Impulse and Death-Instinct
  - 3.4 The Fatherless Society and Surplus Repression
  - 3.5 Beyond

4. The PolITICAL Marcuse
  - 4.1 The One Dimensional Man
  - 4.2 Freedom and 'Project'
  - 4.3 Is Technology Politically Neutral?
  - 4.4 The Vicious Circle

5. Adorno and the Negative Dialectic
  - 5.1 Mankind Died in Auschwitz
  - 5.2 Thinking and Suffering
  - 5.3 Materialism and Maturity
  - 5.4 The Approaching Catastrophe
  - 5.5 The Hope Principle

6. Habermas and Technocratic Ideology
  - 6.1 Science and Technics as Ideology
  - 6.2 Work and Interaction
  - 6.3 Marx and the Snags in Capitalism
  - 6.4 Dialectic of Enlightenment?

7. Criticism and Liberation in Habermas

- 7.1 Phenomenological Criticism of Knowledge
- 7.2 Synthesis through Work and the Class Struggle
- 7.3 The Dialectic of Morality
- 7.4 Theory Equals Therapy
- 7.5 Emancipatory Interest

8. Horkheimer and Religious Yearning

- 8.1 The Immanent Logic of History
- 8.2 Religion Unveils Finiteness and Injustice
- 8.3 Between Longing and Fear
- 8.4 The Critical Theory Compromised

9. The Myth and the Messianic Light

- 9.1 A World Turned Harsh
- 9.2 The Dialectic and its Many Meanings
- 9.3 Dialectic as Belief and Myth
- 9.4 The Messianic Light